

Using Interactive Notebooks for Mixed ELP and Mixed Grade Classes as a Means of Differentiating

NJTESOL Spring Conference 2019
Emily Rosenblum

*Today's Agenda*

Thursday, 30 May 2019
1:00-2:15 pm

Teacher Outcomes/ Objectives:

- ❑ TVVBAT articulate ways they can use interactive notebooks in their classrooms through listening to the presentation, asking questions, and conversing with others.

Agenda:

- ❑ Introduction and why
- ❑ The Foundation: Ideas for planning, organization, and set up with students
- ❑ Samples of student work/ implementation in action
- ❑ Use of supplemental materials
- ❑ Brainstorming time with others in the room
- ❑ Question and answer

*Context/About Me*

About Ramsey's ESL Program:

- Small, but growing
- Pull out model from different classes (K-5)
- Bilingual waiver
- Mixed grade and mixed ELP (thematic work and a lot of scaffolding) = challenge accepted by the ESL teacher

What and Why?: Interactive Notebooks 101

Who is in the audience:

- ☐ ESL push in?
- ☐ ESL pull out?
  - ☐ By grade? By ELP?
  - ☐ By both?
  - ☐ Mixed grade and ELP?
- ☐ General education?
- ☐ Bilingual?
- ☐ Other?

"It's like we get to create a book! We have our very own
book!" - A Very Excited
Fifth Grade Student

What and Why?: Interactive Notebooks 101

What and Why?

- ❑ Physical resource and student tool
- ❑ Planning and implementation of lessons → productive and receptive language skills in every lesson
- ❑ Differentiation made easier/on the spot/with student choice
- ❑ Student ownership of work and portfolios for teachers
- ❑ Student organization
- ❑ Subtle scaffolding and support for all students

Interactive Notebook Pictures and Examples

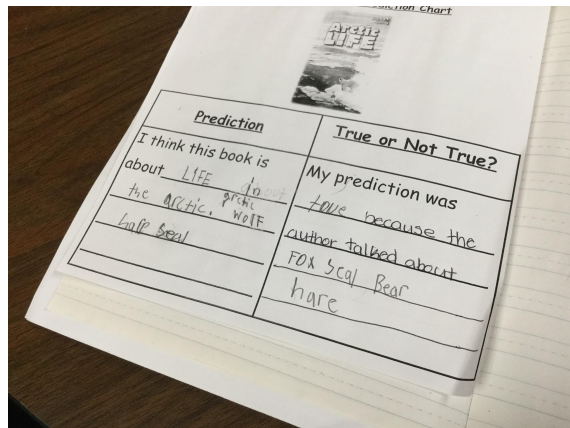

Above: A third grader is working on linguistic complexity with his teacher.

Left: Fifth grade students use guided notes (left side) to help them complete an activity from the Santillana series on the right.

Interactive Notebook Pictures and Examples Con't

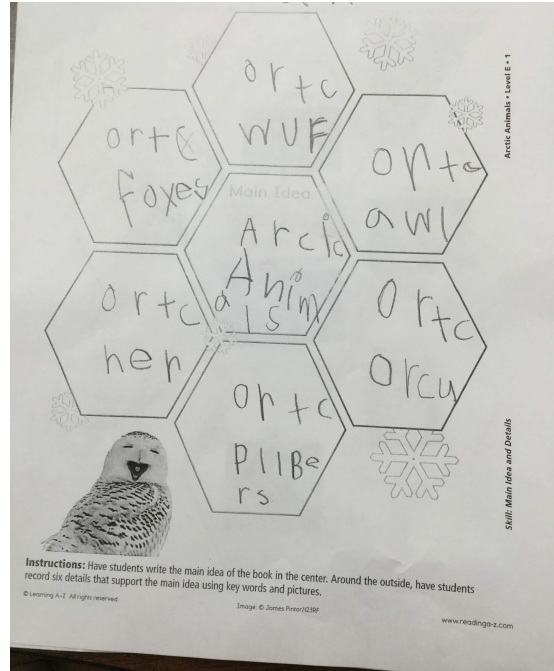

Left: First, second, and third grade students complete a "think, write, pair, share" to both make and confirm predictions.

Right: Students use new vocabulary in ELP appropriate ways to help them make meaning (cloze passage v. drawing for meaning).

| Prediction | True or Not True?                        |
|------------|--|
|            | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> True |
|            | <input type="checkbox"/> Not true        |

Interactive Notebook Pictures and Examples Con't

Left: Students also use the same graphic organizer with different supports for main idea and supporting details. Once it is glued into notebooks, students have a record of their thought process!

Left: Fourth and fifth graders receive feedback in their notebooks.

Right: A relatively independent student receives support with sentence starters on a whiteboard as he does better when he can write as much as possible on his own.

Interactive Notebook Pictures and Examples Con't

Photos redacted for the privacy of students.

Above: Fourth and fifth grade students setting up their notebooks and practice using their interactive notebooks at the beginning of the year to collaboratively complete a sort between academic and social language, thus establishing the purpose of ESL for higher ELP students.

Set Up and Routines: Students

For students: ESL and Interactive Notebook "Bootcamp:"

- ❑ Purpose of the notebooks established for students (ownership and agency)
- ❑ Purpose of the class - grow language, content, etc...
- ❑ Productive and receptive language skills emphasized
- ❑ Goal setting activities (S.M.A.R.T. Goals)
- ❑ Routines and procedures (vocabulary notebooks, daily routines, materials management, cutting, pasting, and highlighting routines → vehicle to teach the routines of your class too!!)
- ❑ Teacher support to you in class and in your notebook

Set Up and Routines: Students

Below: Powerpoint slides I used with students (and given to students to glue into their notebooks) to set up for the year.

- ❑ Building an understanding of the purpose of these notebooks
- ❑ Understanding of/ review of vocabulary when referring to "left side/ odd number" and "right side/even number" (vocabulary of using the notebooks)
- ❑ Practice in a low pressure environment

Left Side

- ❑ Listening activities
  - ❑ Class notes
  - ❑ Handouts for partner work
  - ❑ Song lyrics

- ❑ Reading Activities
  - ❑ Reading pages your teacher gives you
  - ❑ News articles
  - ❑ Anything you read doing research
  - ❑ Pictures of notes from the teacher

Right Side

- ❑ Speaking activities
  - ❑ Dialogues with partners
  - ❑ Scripts we rehearse
  - ❑ Pictures and notes we talk about
- ❑ Writing Activities
  - ❑ Prompts and the responses
  - ❑ Printouts of writing you do on the computer
  - ❑ Graphic organizers

Academic English Notes

I speak and read in English, so why am I here?

We are in ESL to develop our English skills in the English that we use at the university. We need to learn the English that we use at the university to become the best speakers, listeners, readers, and writers in school.

Academic vs. Social English

| Academic English  | Social English                                  |
|---|---|
| I believe that because...   | What is your favorite color?                    |
| Before I became...  | Let's go to the beach to relax and play.        |
| What evidence do you have?  | I like apples more than bananas.                |
| Practice  | Let's go!                                       |
| Do your study with us to cite three examples of evidence to support your ideas. | Let's go to the beach to relax and play.        |
| Readings  | Read and write, we are going to write and read. |
| According to the text...  | Let's go to the beach to relax and play.        |
| Demonstrations  | Let's go to the beach to relax and play.        |
| Support to my argument  | Let's go to the beach to relax and play.        |
| Conclusion  | Let's go to the beach to relax and play.        |
| Do your study with us to cite three examples of evidence to support your ideas. | Let's go to the beach to relax and play.        |

Above: Materials used to set up interactive notebooks: I go through the motions in my own notebook with students to help students set up, under a document camera or in a small group. As the year went on, I had my example already glued in (planning tool!).

Planning and Organization of Materials: Teacher

Teacher Interactive Notebook Toolkit:

- Adaptable to you and your students - more of a thought process to have fidelity to productive and receptive language in each lesson
- Templates/Routines (use resources you already have, front load the work):
  - Super teacher Worksheets
  - Reading A-Z
  - Curricular materials
  - Vocabulary routines/ Sentence starters
  - Templates you create
- In class toolkit: Back up materials/ space to write and scaffold on the spot
  - Whiteboard/ Sheet Protector/ Dry erase marker
  - Pen
  - Highlighter
- Centers/ stations: Build these routines into notebooks

Planning and Organization of Materials: Teacher

Teacher Interactive Notebook Toolkit Con't:

- Google Drive/ Folders to organize by day/ lesson

Part C: Answer the questions in complete sentences. Use the vocabulary from the word bank to help you. You may also ask a classmate or use an iPad to help you visualize any of these words or look them up in Spanish.

Word Bank

|                 |            |              |
|-----------------|------------|--------------|
| customary units | estimate   | convert      |
| same            | measured   | distance     |
| measure         | converting | metric units |
| between         | divide     | multiply     |

Think about this:

- When we measure distances, do we measure in miles or kilometers?
  - In the USA, the unit of measure that we use is _____
  - In other countries around the world, the unit of measure that we use is _____
- When we measure our height, do we use feet or meters?
  - When we measure height in the USA, we use _____
  - When we measure our height in other countries, we use _____

Sanitilana 4, p. 67 - Practice

Word Bank

(Each word can be used more than once)

inches                      feet                      miles

- 1) It is most appropriate to use _____ to measure _____

Differentiation

- ❑ Based on ELP and grade - Knowledge of student as an ELL and content learner
- ❑ "Soft skills:" Fine motor skills, patience, organizational skills
  - ❑ Who is doing the cutting?
  - ❑ Time to look at the words/phrases?
- ❑ We already might differentiate by:
  - ❑ Color coding, providing sentence starters, word boxes, sentence frames, etc
  - ❑ Give students autonomy and choice in supports, which they can add to their notebooks as needed
- ❑ Discreet, yet we learn we get the tools we need to succeed!

Assessment:

WIDA Rubrics, Self Monitoring, Formative Assessment

→ Tool for students (resource) and teachers (formative assessment/ progress monitoring tool)

ESL Writer's Checklist

In my writing, do I (and can I show it to my classmates or teacher):

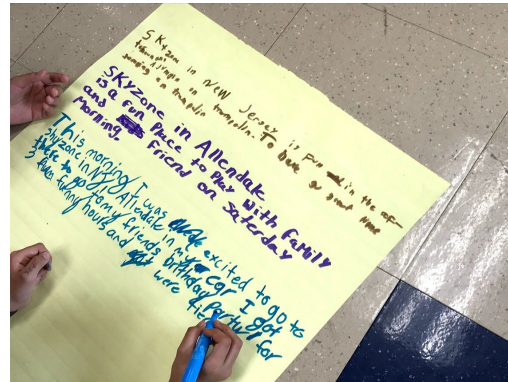

- ☐ Linguistic Complexity
  - ☐ Use a variety of different sentence lengths?
  - ☐ Use sentences that look like language proficiency level
- ☐ Vocabulary Usage
  - ☐ Use as much new vocabulary from the word wall as possible?
  - ☐ Use as much vocabulary from my memory as possible?
  - ☐ Use my first language, when appropriate (e.x. in dialogue)

"I can't believe I wrote like that! This is so much better."
- Fifth grade student on his progress
